Biotechnology Benefiting Aquaculture

PRO4000X tablet trials in Ecuador demonstrated the power of this approach to dramatically reduce levels of accumulated organic matter.

Note the two poles. This photo shows the extent of accumulated organic matter in the drainage canal in the pond. This photo was taken before the application of the tablets.

BEFORE

Note the change in this photograph. This was taken after a cycle of using the tablets. The two poles are the same two poles in the BEFORE photo above. The accumulated organic matter was significantly reduced.

AFTER

The exact quantities and timing of addition will vary between ponds. Consistent use will continue to reduce the levels of accumulated organics.
